

Who Will Love the Children

D G
Who will love the children

D G
when we're not around

D G
who will love the children

D G D
when they're all alone

C G
Sunday morning

C G
a child is born

C G D
and joy fills the world once more

C G
Monday morning

C G
a dream away

a life is such a long time

C G
we'll take it slowly

C G
we must provide

C G D
the things that make life worthwhile

Refrain

I'm off to work now
you must behave
the T.V. will be your new friend

don't touch the stove child lunch in the fridge
your father is working late

but don't you worry
we both love you
and why must you always cry

Refrain

in the window
a lonely child
tears are flowing down

I am alone now
this house is cold
why am I always alone

I've been forgotten
why did she go
mom I love you so

Refrain

in the hallway
the sound that I love
my father is coming home

his big arms around
me in a man size hug
that never lasts long enough

soon there is silence
we sit and we stare
alone in a lonely blue glow

Refrain

Sunday morning
a child is born
and joy fills the world once more

but Monday morning
there are bills to pay
and a lifetime of dreams are lost

time goes by quickly
the years hurry so
and soon our child will be gone

who will love the children
when they are not around
who will love the children
when we're all alone

Refrain
